Successful inclusive practices in line with the State Government priorities, has been a major focus for our school in supporting every student to succeed. In this space, it is a priority for us to continue to research the effective inclusive models, build teacher capability and grow our understanding of differentiated support for all students.

The collection of data at the very early stages of learning – Early Start – resulting in the interpretation and analysis to prepare learning environments that are responsive to the messages from this analysis requires detailed consideration. This is achieved through the cycles of inquiry and planning undertaken with all early years teachers.

Clarity of three levels of planning and full curriculum alignment to the Australian Curriculum is critical in supporting teachers to provide learning experiences that maximise the potential of all students in their care. Our capacity to bring teachers together for collaborative planning ensures this focus on improvement.

The current research influencing our strategic direction and program design is drawn from:

Anita Archer, Dylan Wiliam, Jim Knight, John Hattie, Michael Fullan, George Couros, Kath Murdoch, Judith Glaser, Jo Boaler, Judith Hockman, Adam Fraser and Kate Christie.
